

Digital Inclusion Cards

Made by Jangala, 2025

These cards are an open-source resource for anyone to use.

Feel free to print, cut out, and use them in whatever way suits your needs.

When referencing or sharing these cards, please credit Jangala (see full licensing terms below).

Each card is a type of digital activity. These are labelled the way research participants have described them to us.

Some of the categories in these cards will overlap. They don't cover everything we do online. The blank cards are for people to write what they do in their own words.

These cards are designed for engagement. You could use them for community facilitation, research, an explorative game - it's up to you.

You could use them to help understand what is important to people, what makes them nervous, or what they want to learn.

Instructions:

- Print onto A4 paper
- Cut out each card
- If you want to laminate them, you can
- Print extra blank cards if you like
- A black and white version is available on www.janga.la
- Make sure your printer settings are set to print 'One sided' and 'Fit to paper'
